Ashley's hardworking and driven nature is fuelled by her determination and desire to be successful.

Her focus is on providing high quality work that is timely, tailored and innovative. Ashley consistently applies the Livingstones mantras of "listening for understanding" and "solutions for every unique circumstance" when working with clients and colleagues.

Her warm and engaging manner allows her to easily gain the respect and trust of the clients she works with.

Ashley approaches her work with a positive attitude, energy and a genuine willingness to learn, which makes her a highly valued member of the Livingstones Team.

Ashley adopts a common sense approach to analysis and problem solving. Her strengths lie in her meticulous attention to detail and her ability to be highly organised and practical while working to tight deadlines.

Ashley works across the broad range of Employment & Industrial Relations functions. She researches and interprets case law and legislation, prepares and drafts written advice, drafts correspondence and undertakes analysis of workplace employment relations issues. Additionally, she provides advice regarding the interpretation of modern awards, assists in the preparation of enterprise agreements, and drafts and reviews workplace policies and contracts.

Having recently graduated with a Law and HR degree, Ashley has the advantage of combining her knowledge and technical skills in these two areas to provide the best possible people solutions.
